FIVE FACTS ABOUT STIBO DX

1. Stibo DX develops editorial content management systems for media companies and brand publishers around the world. Among the company's customers are:
   - The New York Times, Gannett, and McClatchy in the US
   - Toronto Star and The Globe and Mail in Canada
   - OEM, El Mercurio, and Infoglobo in South America
   - The Economist and Reach in the UK
   - Axel Springer, Handelsblatt Media Group, Der Tagesspiegel, Focus Online, Funke Mediengruppe, RTL Radio, and n-tv in Germany
   - Telegraaf Media Group, Roularta Media Group, and Groupe Rossel in Benelux
   - JP/Politikens Hus, Børsen, Amedia, YLE, and SVT in Scandinavia
   - Times of India and The Hindu in India

2. Stibo DX has 200 employees in five countries: Denmark, USA, Germany, Norway, and Bangladesh

3. In April 2019, Stibo DX acquired Digital Collections, a leading software company within digital asset management solutions. Digital Collections is based in Hamburg, Germany

4. Stibo DX’s main product is the CUE publishing platform, a browser-based platform for multichannel content creation and publishing. CUE allows content creators to break free from the constraints of legacy formats and structures, and reinvent storytelling for the digital space. Learn more at cuepublishing.com

5. Stibo DX is owned by the Stibo Group, a global operator of leading information management and printing companies. Other Stibo Group companies are:
   - Stibo Complete, Scandinavia’s leading company within design, development, and production of printed marketing solutions
   - Stibo Systems, a leading provider of multidomain master data management solutions

The Stibo Group was founded in 1794 and is headquartered in Aarhus, Denmark. The Stibo Group is owned by the Stibo Foundation. Learn more at www.stibo.com