AFRICAN STORYTELLING

Storytelling lies at the heart of connecting with an audience and this is Viacom’s expertise in the craft of storytelling has helped us become one of the world’s leading entertainment companies, with over 4 billion subscribers in more than 180 countries globally and on the African continent, reaching more than 100 million viewers across 48 territories in Africa.

And whilst some view today’s fragmented media landscape as a challenge in holding audiences attention, we see it as an opportunity to do more of what we are good at.

That is working with the best local story tellers in the business. From DiPrenna, Weldun and Quizical Productions, our writers tirelessly craft every joke and every plot twist, creating original and impactful stories across our content.

And telling our stories across every platform. From chart topping Nickelodeon programming, to YouTube friendly Comedy Central Short Form episodes and award winning Daily Show digital spin offs crafting the story is always a cross platform endeavour. And forging ahead with new technologies.

From SpongeBob and Trevor Noah on Voice, to Nickelodeon Slime Zone VR experiences at IMAX, we lead the way in storytelling across nascent platforms.

We have built our expertise in emotional storytelling across two decades and our innovation across every platform ensures we will be telling great stories for our brands and our partners for decades to come. 2 billion video views a month and 3 billion followers is testament to that.
